UNITED STATES OF AMERICA BEFORE THE NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS BOARD

AMALGAMATED TRANSIT UNION LOCAL 1338.

Petitioner.

MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE A BRIEF, AMICUS CURIAE

The American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations moves for leave to file the accompanying brief, amicus curiae. The AFL-CIO is a federation of 56 national and international labor organizations with a total membership of approximately 11.5 million working men and women.

The issue before the National Labor Relations Board in this case is whether the drivers engaged by SuperShuttle DFW, Inc. ("SuperShuttle") to provide shared-ride transportation primarily at the Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport are "employees" or "independent contractors" within the meaning of Section 2(3) of the National Labor Relations Act, 29 U.S.C. § 152(3). The Regional Director applied the common-law agency test and determined that the drivers are "independent contractors." The correct application of the common-law agency test to distinguish between "employees" and "independent contractors" is an important issue, which the AFL-CIO has previously addressed in other cases in which it has participated as amicus curiae, including Roadway Package System, Inc., 326 NLRB 842 (1998).

The AFL-CIO has a continuing interest in ensuring that persons who are properly classified as "employees" under the National Labor Relations Act are not denied the protections of the Act. The AFL-CIO therefore respectfully requests that the Board grant leave for the AFL-CIO to file the accompanying brief, amicus curiae.

Respectfully submitted,
